

What is the purpose of this website?

To provide information about our business and the services we offer, also to offer a streamline way for interested parties to contact us.

What information do we collect and why?

If you make an enquiry, we collect information such as the name you provide, phone number, email, and postcode. We keep this information in case we need to contact you. Under no circumstances will your information be used by this third party to send you promotional materials. You may unsubscribe at any time and we will delete your information at your request.

We use Google Analytics to understand who visits our website. Google Analytics collects information such as your name, age, gender, device, browser, and session time, which is then anonymised.

Your information will never be sold to another party for any reason. Your information may be given to the appropriate law enforcement agencies if required, or for your or our safety.

What are cookies? How do we use them?

Cookies are small files that hold information about a client or a website. They are stored on your computer. Servers or computers can access these files in order to remember users and carry information between web pages, and to remember when a user last visited. They can also be used to load pages faster. Our system collects session identifier cookies, which is something we cannot control, but they are not used by the site. You can change your cookie settings in your browser at any time.

What are our obligations?

We must comply with the Australian Online Privacy Protection Act, which includes providing this privacy policy.

When you use our website, you consent to our privacy policy. We are not responsible for the policies or actions for any third party.

Any changes to our privacy policy will be shown on this page.